

LH flight school reorganizes as LLC

LOCK HAVEN - Prof. H. Paul Shuch, chief flight instructor at AvSport of Lock Haven, announces the sport aviation business he established four years ago at Piper Memorial Airport has just been reorganized as a Limited Liability Company (LLC). Shuch said that the move, intended to protect himself and his family in litigious times, was motivated by the legal fallout of an aviation accident in Oregon last September.

Shuch said as a Sole Proprietorship, AvSport could well be the target of a frivolous lawsuit, and his personal property and retirement income could have been placed in jeopardy. Registering his flight school as an LLC provides at least a modicum of protection, he said.

Now, should someone choose to sue the company, all he or she can hope to gain is ownership of a flight school, he said.